FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

Berthoud Recognized as a Safest City in Colorado

The Town of Berthoud was recently recognized as one of the 20 Safest Cities in Colorado, as part of the 2015 20 Safest Cities in Colorado Report. Berthoud ranked 15th; nearby communities on the list include Johnstown (8th) and Fredrick (16th).

According to the report's website, safewise.com/blog/safest-cities-colorado-2015/, "Berthoud's tree-lined streets, attractive housing developments, and booming business district blend to create a hometown environment that's hard to find these days. It's also a progressive town where leaders encourage citizens to voice their questions and concerns at monthly "Community Chats." This problem-solving initiative promotes dialogue about community issues, which can help keep the city's crime rates low."

The SafeWise Report released its 20 Safest Cities in Colorado Report on November 23, 2015. To compile this report, SafeWise analysts considered the most recent FBI crime data from 2013 to rank these cities, which all have a minimum population of 3,000 people.
